From Dr. Williams.

The recent Papal aggressions developed a latent dread and dislike of Rome in the national mixed of England such as extensible both the friends and foce of the Papary. No human book has done so much to work these feedings icto the very fiber of the English character, as has been effected by the Acts and Renuments of the excellent Marryrologist."

From the Res. John Angel James.

Tour new and cheap edition of Foxe's crisinal book needs no recommendation of mine, it deserves additional value from the present efforts, prespects and hopes of the Papary. Every Protestant ought to know and value this affacting and dreadful interaction of the effects of Papary; if, however, my recommendation be of any worth, I mee correlally given:

From the Res. W. M. Hetherington, D.D.

At a fire like the present, when the Papal system is again threatening to resume its aggressive movements, it must be of great importance that its reachear acts of the effects of the character, in all its treachery (alselbood, and presenting crostly is now bere better define such than in the graphic pages of the memorable Martyrologist."

THE NEW-YORK LEDGER Would ansounce that he has completed an arrangement with ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR AUTHORS IN THE UNITED STATES, for another great ORIGINAL STORY, and that the publication will shortly be commerced in THE been laid before the American public. The first installu amounting to some five or six co unner, will be published in the leading daily papers in the principal cities; this extra expense we bear knowing that there who read the first part will not be satisfied until they get the entire Te's.

It is scarcely nicessary for the publisher, ofter the enormou mmn a stery for THE LEDGER from FANNY PERN vest amount he has paid for advertising the first part of stories in the daily papers, to inform the trade that hereafter, as hereand introduce it into every family in the Union.

The publishers of one or two Boston papers we understand, cal a lib le sere at the great success of THE LEDGER. They seem to think that the " Modern Ashens" is settled to a monop ely of the literary weeklies; and that they can supply New-York families with all the "light reading" (as it is termed) that hey want. Perhaps they can, But they must not blame us we my what we can do; nor will it help them any if they ese their temper because we get up a much handsomer paper and a fair fight; and let the man who has the least " pluck" fail

Says The Boston Traveller:

"We confess to having read sufficiently far to get quite interested in the narrative, and to be able to acknowledge, which we do with pleasure, the literary ability of the unknown author. It is a love tale, and of the mest entrancing sind."

Says The Albany Evening Journal:

"Its incidents are nove; and effectively managed; and its style possesses both earnest vigor and depth of pathos, relieved by occarional inables of a pleasing and genial tumor. Among the crowd of trashy publications now issued from the press, a work as true to nature and as elevated and just in its conceptions of the purposes of life as this is, is all the more welcome because it is so rare. We have no doubt it will be as popular as it is interesting."

he cause it is so rate.

We have seedom period a work of fiction that gave us more real pleasure than this From first to last page it enchains the airention, and carries your sympathies siong with the fortunes of the heroine. The descriptive powers of the unknown authorses are of the leftiest order, and cannot fail of placing her in the first ranks of authorship.
